

In 1998, the Dean approved a JHSPH policy on ownership and use of educational materials developed by the Mackenzie Committee. That policy permits faculty to assign copyright to a publisher of traditional works of authorship provided a University-approved reservation of rights is included. Faculty should include a copy of this Reservation of Rights each time they sign a publication agreement with a journal.

Reservation of Rights (for Journal Articles)

The author transfers to (publisher) the exclusive rights comprised in the copyright of the article, except that the author retains the following:

1. All proprietary rights, including copyright or other ownership interest in any formula, equation, or questionnaires in the article or attachment to the article, is retained by the University.
2. The right to make copies of all or part of the work for the author's or University's use in teaching.
3. The right to use, after publication, all or part of this material in works by the author in print or electronic format.
4. The right to include all or part of this material in the author's thesis or dissertation.
5. The right to make copies of the work for internal distribution within the institution which employs the author or at this University.
6. The right to use figures and tables from the work, and up to 25% of the text, for any purpose.
7. The right to make oral presentation of the material in any forum.

In the case of work prepared under U.S. Government contract, the U.S. Government may reproduce, royalty-free, all portions of the article and may authorize others to do so, for official U.S. Government purposes only, if the contract so requires.

The author agrees that all copies made under any of the above conditions will include notice of the publisher's copyright.
