THE HIROMU TSUCHIYA CONSOLIDATED SCHOLARSHIP FUND

Hironu Tsuchiya came to the United States from Japan in 1911. Penniless, he worked his way through the School's parasitology program. After graduating in 1930, he taught at Washington University's Medical School for 50 years. In many ways his life and career typify the hundreds of students who pass through the School every year. At his death, Dr. Tsuchiya bequeathed part of his estate to provide financial aid to students at the Johns Hopkins Bloomberg School of Public Health. Income from this fund is added to general funds for student aid, which are disbursed through the School's Financial Aid Office. While there is no single student named as the Hironu Tsuchiya Awardee, we take this opportunity to honor his legacy and to acknowledge all the students at the School who give so much of themselves to serve humankind through public health research and practice.

NEW AWARDS

Aoyama-Kita Scholarship

Dr. Hideyasu Aoyama was a student of the late Dr. Anna Baetjer in the 1960s. He returned to his native Japan and became the chair of all departments of preventive medicine for all medical schools in the country. Dr. Etsuko Kita was a student in the Department of International Health in the 1990s. Together they have worked to promote the Japan chapter of the Society of Alumni. This fund provides scholarships for public health physicians from Japan, Korea, and Malaysia who will pursue careers in public health practice in those countries, and/or who demonstrate an avid research interest in public health issues affecting those countries.

Recipients: Keiko Asao
Kayo Waki

The Trudy Bush Fund

Established by friends and colleagues of Trudy Bush, this fund will support a student pursuing a MHS degree in the Department of Epidemiology with a specialization in women's health. Trudy Bush, PhD, MHS '80, was an internationally recognized expert in the field of women's health, particularly in the areas of menopause, hormone replacement therapy, and cardiovascular disease in women. She was on the faculty of the School in the Department of Epidemiology for eight years and remained an adjunct professor after moving to the University of Maryland School of Medicine. Dr. Bush died suddenly in March 2001.

Recipient: Sufia S. Dadabhai

The Dean's Alumni Advisory Council Scholarship

Created by members of the Dean's Alumni Advisory Council, this fund provides tuition support to deserving incoming or continuing students whose careers in public health will be dedicated to preventing disease and disability and premature death in the global defense of human life.

SCHOOLWIDE AWARDS

The Frederik B. Bang Fund

Frederik Bang, MD, served as chair of the Departments of Parasitology from 1953 to 1955 and Pathobiology from 1955 to 1981. His research was noted for translating the microscopic to the macroscopic. Dr. Bang was an extraordinarily creative scientist whose interests ranged from microscopy to animal ecology. By using the blood of the horseshoe crab, Dr. Bang and a colleague, Dr. Jack Levin, perfected a way to discover and diagnose meningitis in septicemia, a blood poisoning that struck approximately 75,000 young people a year. His widow, Betsy Bang, and various family members and colleagues established this fund in his memory to support a doctoral student engaged in research relevant to pathobiology.

Recipients: Michael Berg
Ching Ging Ng

J. Howard Beard Fellowship

This fellowship was established in 1989 by the family, friends, and colleagues of J. Howard Beard MD, MS, who dedicated his career to improving the health of the people of Maryland. He turned the Anne Arundel County Health Department into a model agency, and his management and innovative programs have been cited with approval in a variety of public health publications, including those used to introduce students to public health and administration. The fellowship supports beginning master of public health students who are graduates of the Johns Hopkins University School of Medicine or enrolled in the joint MD/MPH program. Preference is given to candidates interested in careers in local or state public health work.

Recipient: Andrew Shannon

The David and Elinor Bodian Award

The David and Elinor Bodian Foundation established this award to honor both the late Dr. David Bodian, who served on the School's faculty from 1942 to 1947, and his wife, Elinor. Dr. Bodian's seminal research on the behavior of the poliovirus contributed to the development of the polio vaccine and to worldwide progress in combating this crippling disease. Elinor Bodian graduated from the Art as Applied to Medicine Program at the School of Medicine. The fund provides annual support to a doctoral student in any department at the School whose dissertation research is at a critical juncture.

Recipient: Katherine DeLand

The Carol Eliasberg Martin Scholarship in Cancer Prevention

This fund was established in 1998 by the Eliasberg Family Foundation in memory of Carol Eliasberg Martin, MHS '82, who died in 1997 after a long battle with cancer. This fund provides annual support to an outstanding doctoral or postdoctoral student whose work holds promise for preventing cancers that affect women, with a focus on breast and ovarian cancer.

Recipients: Dana M. Kelly
Celeste M. Torio

Endowed Student Support Fund

This fund will support students undertaking research projects in injury control or population control in low-income countries with preference given to China, India, and Indonesia.

Recipient: Nhan T. Tran

The Eskridge Family Student Support Fund for International Students

From 1931 to 1938, Lydia Eskridge was a student and research assistant to Dr. Robert Hegner, head of parasitology at the School. Her research work focused on dysentery, malaria, hookworm, and mosquitoes. She went on to become a parasitologist with a team of Hopkins scientists who went to work at a therapeutic institute in New York City, part of the William R. Warner pharmaceutical company and later known as Warner Lambert. The Eskridge Family Student Support Fund for International Students reflects the life-long commitment of Lydia Eskridge Arden to public health.

Recipient: Marjorie Opuni-Akuamo

The Ruth Freeman Memorial Fund

The late Dr. Freeman, a member of the faculty and coordinator of the nursing programs at the School, was elected to the National Nursing Hall of Fame in 1984. This award, established by her family, friends, and alumni, recognizes an outstanding nurse doctoral student who is either graduating or continuing in the program.

Recipient: Susan M. Braid
Lara S. Ho

The Howard C. and Jane R. Goodman Fund

Howard Goodman, MD, PhD, was a faculty member in the Schools of Medicine and Public Health from 1977 until he retired in 1985. He had a long and distinguished career in medical science, including pioneering and leading the World Health Organization's Tropical Diseases Research Program. This fund was established by his family and friends to provide tuition support to outstanding American and international students enrolled in the MPH program.

Recipient: Rachel Lapidus

The Lillian Hiss–Ethel Crosby Scholarship Fund

This award was established to honor Lillian Hiss and Ethel Crosby, nurses who dedicated their careers to public health nursing at the Catonsville Health Clinic. In 1971, the clinic was sold, and the proceeds were donated to the School to offer support to graduate students with nursing backgrounds.

Recipients: Lori A. Edwards
Kristin Kuldaneck

The John C. Hume Fund for Academic Excellence and Promise in an MPH Student

The late John C. Hume, MD, DrPH, was dean of the Johns Hopkins School of Hygiene and Public Health from 1967 to 1977 and a member of the faculty for 40 years. This award, established by alumni, friends, and faculty, honors Dr. Hume’s commitment to excellence in the MPH program.

Recipient: Ashwin Ananthakrishnan

Johnson & Johnson Community Health Care Scholars

The Johnson & Johnson Community Health Care Program was established in 1987 to help address national health care needs within the community and public health sectors. Each year, public health doctoral candidates from the School are selected from a competitive pool to provide technical assistance for two consecutive years to community health care organizations receiving support from Johnson & Johnson. The J & J Scholars help the grantees with the design and implementation of appropriate monitoring and evaluation approaches to measure the effectiveness of their projects.

Recipients: Amy Boore
Shivonne Laird
Ling Shi
Arpi Terzian
Amy Vastine

The Harry D. Kruse Fellowship in Nutrition

Harry D. Kruse, MD, ScD, collaborated with E.V. McCollum in the latter’s renowned vitamin research, and served with distinction for many years as a faculty member in the Department of Biochemistry and Molecular Biology. This award, established in 1987 by the Kruse family, recognizes outstanding doctoral candidates in nutrition and public health.

Recipients: Jung Park
Xiaoping Weng

The Cynthia and Robert Lawrence Scholarship

Robert Lawrence, MD, associate dean for Professional Education and Programs, and his wife, Cynthia, established this scholarship in 2000 to support a student whose public health interests have a direct bearing on the priorities of the Center for a Livable Future.

Recipient: Ameena Batada

The Ernest Lyman and Helen Ross Stebbins Scholarship

This scholarship was established in 1988 by alumni, friends, and members of the Stebbins family to memorialize Ernest Stebbins, MD, MPH, and his devotion to students at the School. Dr. Stebbins was dean from 1946 to 1967, and served on the faculty from 1946 to 1972. A pioneer in the field of preventive medicine, he was also renowned as an outstanding physician, epidemiologist, health commissioner, and professor. He was a charter member, and later president, of the American Board of Preventive Medicine. The Stebbins award is given to students who focus on professional practice.

Recipient: Tilly A. Gurman

The Janice Eddy Mickey Endowed Scholarship

This scholarship was established in 1997 by the family of Janice Eddy Mickey, DrPH '68. Dr. Mickey was instrumental in the creation of the Patients' Bill of Rights through her thesis work at Hopkins. The fund supports students who plan to devote their lives to improving health and human rights worldwide.

Recipient: Katherine M. Andrinopoulos

The Minority Health Award

The Minority Student Support Fund was established in 1991 as a permanent endowment by alumni and friends of the School. It recognizes students with a demonstrated commitment to minority health issues.

Recipient: Chavonne D. Lenoir

The Marcia G. Pines Award in Bioethics and Public Health

This award was established by The Bioethics Institute of the Johns Hopkins University in honor of Marcia Pines, in recognition of her long-standing support and advocacy on behalf of bioethics education at the Bloomberg School of Public Health. It is given annually for the best student paper in bioethics and public health.

Recipient: Danstan Bagenda
Leah Kalm

The R. Bradley Sack Family Scholarship Award

Established in 2000 by R. Bradley Sack, MD, MS, ScD '68, the award supports outstanding doctoral students studying infectious disease in the developing world. Dr. Sack has served on the faculty at the School for over 30 years and has consulted and worked all over the world on problems related to infectious diseases.

Recipient: Christa Fischer Walker

The Watt/Hansell Endowment

The Watt/Hansell Endowment was established in 1994 by James Watt, MD, DrPH '36, and Myron Wegman, MD, MPH '38. The late Dr. Watt was the first of four generations of Watt/Hansell Hopkins graduates to combine medical studies with training in public health. James Watt was a Diplomate of the American Board of Preventive Medicine. His crusade to promote public health led to the creation of the Watt/Hansell Endowment, which supports the cross-training of students in the Schools of Public Health and Medicine.

Recipients: Marian Betz
Aisha Hughes
Brett Nelson

DEPARTMENTAL AWARDS

Biochemistry and Molecular Biology

The Elsa Orent Keiles Fellowship in Biochemistry

This fellowship was established in 1996 with a bequest from the estate of Elsa Orent Keiles, ScD '25, a graduate of the Department of Chemical Hygiene (now Biochemistry and Molecular Biology). In keeping with Dr. Keiles' research interests, the award provides tuition support for graduate students with demonstrated financial need in the Department of Biochemistry and Molecular Biology and in the Division of Human Nutrition in the Department of International Health.

Recipient: Diane Grove

Biostatistics

The Helen Abbey Scholarship Fund

This fund was established by friends, faculty, colleagues, and former students of the late Helen Abbey, ScD '51, to celebrate her long and fruitful tenure in the Department of Biostatistics. The award provides support for second-year (and later) Biostatistics doctoral candidates who are committed to teaching after graduation.

Recipient: Michelle Shardell

Louis I. Dublin and Thomas D. Dublin Fund for the Advancement of Epidemiology and Biostatistics

Thomas D. Dublin, MD, DrPH '41, trained as an epidemiologist at the School. His father, Dr. Louis I. Dublin, was a distinguished biostatistician. Their two public health disciplines have long been united by a tradition of collaboration as exemplified by the notable partnership of Lowell Reed and Wade Hampton Frost and their continuing legacy of cooperation is honored with the creation of this fund. This fund will support graduate student education at the junction of Biostatistics and Epidemiology at the School.

Recipient: Sorina E. Eftim

Jane and Steve Dykacz Endowment Fund in Medical Statistics

This fund was created to provide an award to a faculty member or student whose research fosters biostatistical research and practice in order to advance our understanding of human health and disease.

The Margaret Merrell Fund

This fund has been awarded since 1995 in memory of faculty member Margaret Merrell, ScD '30. Founded by friends, colleagues, and former students, the fund supports outstanding doctoral students for their work in Biostatistics.

Recipients: Wei-Min Chen
Ravi Varadhan

Environmental Health Sciences

The Randy E. Bass Award

The Randy E. Bass Award in the Division of Occupational and Environmental Health of the Department of Environmental Health Sciences was endowed in 1996 through Dr. Bass' estate. Randy received his MPH from the School in 1988 and completed the full requirements of the Occupational Medicine Residency in June 1989. Having received the Secretary's Exceptional Achievement Award from the U.S. Department of Labor, Dr. Bass served as a team member in developing final environmental cadmium standards. He was active in the Occupational Medicine Residency teaching and training programs, and in the teaching of undergraduates. This award benefits a student who demonstrates the same dedication to the field that Randy did during his all too brief career.

Recipient: Evelyn K. Balogun

The Cornelius W. Krusé Award

Dr. Krusé served as chair of the Departments of Sanitary Engineering (1962-1963) and Environmental Health Sciences (1966-1976). This award, established by his colleagues, friends, and former students, recognizes academic achievement.

Recipient: Amir Sapkota

The David Leslie Swift Fund

This fund was established in 1998 by Suzanne Swift in honor of her late husband, David Leslie Swift, PhD. Dr. Swift was a faculty member at the School from 1966 to 1997. His research career was distinguished and diverse, and his work on the health effects of particulate matter and air pollutants made him a pioneer in his field. This fund supports exceptional master's, doctoral, or postdoctoral students in the Division of Environmental Health Engineering of the Department of Environmental Health Sciences.

Recipient: James McDevitt

Epidemiology

The Campaign for Epidemiology Fund

Begun with a challenge gift from Jonathan Samet, chair of the Department of Epidemiology, with the fees he received for his work on the case of the State of Minnesota and Blue Cross/Blue Shield of Minnesota vs. Philip Morris Inc. and others, and added to by other donors, this fund provides support for students and junior faculty in the Department of Epidemiology.

Recipients: Kyle T. Bernstein
Caroline Fichtenberg
Mark H. Kuniholm
Yongmei Liu
Meghan A. McSorley
Elaine H. Morrato
Elizabeth Selvin
Sonia Singh

Louis I. Dublin and Thomas D. Dublin Fund for the Advancement of Epidemiology and Biostatistics

Thomas D. Dublin, MD, DrPH '41, trained as an epidemiologist at the School. His father, Dr. Louis I. Dublin, was a distinguished biostatistician. Their two public health disciplines have long been united by a tradition of collaboration as exemplified by the notable partnership of Lowell Reed and Wade Hampton Frost and that continued legacy of cooperation is honored with the creation of this fund. This fund will support graduate student education at the junction of Biostatistics and Epidemiology at the School.

The Robert Dyar Memorial Fund

The Robert Dyar Memorial Fund was established in 1994 through the estate of Dr. Robert Dyar, MPH '37, DrPH '38. This award provides tuition support to graduate students in the Department of Epidemiology who do not yet have an MD degree.

Recipient: Farin Kamangar

The Charlotte Ferencz Fellowship

Charlotte Ferencz, MD, MPH, who established this fund in 2000, has devoted her professional life to unraveling the enormously complex issues posed by congenital heart disease. This scholarship supports students doing research projects on birth defects, with preference given to projects related to the etiology of congenital heart disease. The research may be part of a faculty research project. The intention of the scholarship is to support research leading to the student's doctoral dissertation or master's thesis.

Recipients: Julia B. Herbstman

The Mary Bradley Meyer Fellowship in Epidemiology

Mary Bradley Meyer, a faculty member in the Department of Epidemiology, was noted for her landmark studies on the effects of maternal smoking and x-ray exposure on pregnant women. This fellowship, established in 1981 by her family, friends, colleagues, and former students, supports doctoral and post-doctoral students in Epidemiology whose research focuses on the epidemiology of reproduction and infant/child health.

Recipient: Olumuyiwa Aina

The Charlotte Silverman Fund in the Department of Epidemiology

Dr. Charlotte Silverman, MPH '42, DrPH '48, an Epidemiology alumna, had a long and distinguished career in epidemiology at the state and federal levels. She established this fund in 1996 to support outstanding students and junior faculty in Epidemiology whose focus is on epidemiology and policy. Dr. Silverman died in April 2003.

Recipients: Kate Gilroy
Robin Pollini
J. Morel Symons, IV

General Preventive Medicine

Ruth B. and J. Douglas Colman Scholarship

This fund was established in 2001 by the daughters of J. Douglas and Ruth B. Colman. Mr. Colman was one of the founders of Blue Cross/Blue Shield of Maryland. This fund honors Mr. and Mrs. Colman's dedication to high quality health care for all. The Ruth B. and J. Douglas Colman Scholarship provides support to an outstanding student in the preventive medicine residency whose focus is on health policy.

Recipient: Craig M. Hales

The General Preventive Medicine Residency Endowment

The General Preventive Medicine Residency Endowment was established in 1994 by graduates of the Preventive Medicine Residency. This fund will provide tuition and stipend support for first-year General Preventive Medicine residents.

Recipient: Aruna Chandran

The GlaxoSmithKline Preventive Medicine Residency

The GlaxoSmithKline Preventive Medicine Residency Scholarship was established in 1995 with a gift from GlaxoSmithKline. The scholarship offers support to a first year outstanding preventive medicine resident.

Recipient: Christopher D. Sullivan

David Paton Scholarship in Preventive Medicine

David Paton, MD, is a retired ophthalmologist who received his medical degree from the Johns Hopkins University School of Medicine and did his residency at the Wilmer Institute. For a decade, he was chair of the Department of Ophthalmology at the Baylor College of Medicine. He has long been involved in community affairs, having been a past chair of the American Board of Ophthalmology and founder and former medical director of Project ORBIS, designed to take ophthalmic teaching of ambulatory eye surgery to developing nations. Since his retirement to Long Island, he has been on the boards of the East Hampton Health Care Foundation, the Southampton Hospital, and other similar boards. Dr. Paton is a member of the School's Health Advisory Board and strongly supports the concept of preventive medicine. Established in 2001, the fund supports a general preventive medicine resident at the Johns Hopkins Bloomberg School of Public Health.

Recipient: Daniel Shodell

Health Policy and Management

The William Haddon, Jr., Fellowship in Injury Prevention

The William Haddon, Jr., Fellowship in Injury Prevention was established in 1986 by the sponsors of the Insurance Institute for Highway Safety. This is the nation's first fellowship program in injury prevention. Additional funds have been contributed by many of the nation's property and casualty insurers and faculty, alumni, students and friends of the Department of Health Policy and Management. The Fellowship is designed to stimulate excellence in injury prevention by supporting doctoral studies.

Recipient: Jennifer Taylor

The John C. Hume Doctoral Award

Admired for his humor and wisdom, the late Dr. John Hume served as dean, faculty member, and mentor to many generations of public health professionals. This award, established by faculty, friends, and alumni, honors Dr. Hume's commitment to excellence in doctoral research in public health. This award is granted each year to a continuing student who shows great potential in the field of public health.

Recipient: Melissa Davey

The Victor P. Raymond Memorial Award in Public Policy Development

This award was established in 1994 by friends and family members of the late Dr. Raymond, ScD '87, a graduate of the Department of Health Policy and Management. Dr. Raymond was influential in one of the most dynamic arenas for public policy development, the U.S. Congress. He spent more than 12 years working on health care research and policy analysis, federal health program management, and legislative affairs. The award supports a continuing doctoral student in the department whose work has relevance at the national and state levels.

Recipient: Katherine DeLand

The John Paul Stapp Endowed Scholarship

Created by friends of Colonel John Stapp, income from this fund will support students whose research and study focus on aviation safety, highway safety, or biomechanics--areas that have benefited greatly from Colonel Stapp's historic research.

Recipient: Mark Hayden

The Willian Endowment for Excellence in Science

Income from this fund supports U.S. doctoral students working in maternal and child health in the Department of Population and Family Health Sciences or in the Department of Health Policy and Management whose work focuses on issues of health policy and management for women and children. The fund was established by alumna Mary Kaye Willian, DrPH '82, MPH '79, and friends in honor of Dr. Willian's parents, Irene V. and Raymond V. Willian.

Recipient: Alyssa Wigton

The John P. Young Memorial Fund

This fund was established in 1988 by former students, colleagues, friends, and family members of John P. Young, DEng '62, professor of Health Policy and Management. The fund is a lasting memorial to a professor who was known for his dedication to the students and the School, especially in the area of management sciences. The fund supports an annual award to an outstanding student in the Department of Health Policy and Management.

Recipient: Nikolas Buescher

International Health

Dr. Henry K. and Lola Beye Scholarship

This fund was established in 2001 through the estate of Lola Beye, widow of Henry Beye, MD, MPH '42, an authority on tropical diseases. Dr. Beye spent many years at the U.S. Public Health Service where he was the director of the Middle America Research Unit. He conducted intensive studies on elephantiasis, hemorrhagic fever, filariasis, and schistosomiasis, and during his career worked in such countries as Bolivia, British Guinea, Thailand, and Panama, where he died suddenly on April 11, 1964, of a heart attack. Mrs. Beye, a nurse, often worked in the field with Dr. Beye.

Recipient: Thomas Jaenisch

Georgeda Buchbinder Fund

Dr. Georgeda Buchbinder received her MPH from the School of Public Health in 1984. Dr. Buchbinder then began a career in public health by moving to Hawaii and teaching population and international health. Her career was progressing extraordinarily well when she was diagnosed with cancer. This fund was established by friends and colleagues after her death to celebrate her all too brief career in public health. This fund provides annual support to students, junior faculty, or other priority projects in international health at the discretion of the chair of the Department of International Health.

Recipient: Jeffrey Willis

The Clements-Mann Fellowship

Mary Lou Clements-Mann, MD, MPH '79, professor of International Health, and her husband Jonathan Mann, MD, MPH, visiting professor of Health Policy and Management, died in September 1998 when Swiss Air Flight 111 to Geneva crashed into the North Atlantic. The Manns were at the forefront of the worldwide struggle against AIDS. Dr. Clements-Mann was an internationally known virologist and AIDS researcher who devoted most of her career to developing and testing vaccines to combat respiratory viruses, AIDS, and diarrheal diseases. As professor of International Health, she was the founding director of the Center for Immunization Research, where she worked with colleagues to develop the master's and doctoral programs in vaccine sciences. Dr. Jonathan Mann founded the World Health Organization's AIDS program and was one of the first scientists to bring the international AIDS crisis to the world's attention. The Clements-Mann Fellowship was established by family members, friends, and colleagues as a tribute to Mary Lou's and Jonathan's tireless devotion to vaccine development, research, and human rights. The fund supports outstanding graduate students working in vaccine sciences.

Recipient: Shannon Grahek

The Diana Hess Memorial Fund

In 1983, the Diana Hess Memorial Fund was established with contributions from her family and friends. Diana Hess, a former Peace Corps volunteer in Kenya, was devoted to improving public health in Africa. The Hess Fund provides an annual scholarship to students in the Department of International Health.

Recipient: Melanie Lo

The Elsa Orent Keiles Fellowship in Human Nutrition in International Health

This fellowship was established in 1996 with a bequest from the estate of Elsa Orent Keiles, ScD '25, a graduate of the Department of Chemical Hygiene (now Biochemistry and Molecular Biology). In keeping with Dr. Keiles' research interests, the award provides tuition support for graduate students with demonstrated financial needs in the Department of Biochemistry and Molecular Biology and the Division of Human Nutrition in International Health.

Recipient: Justine Kavle

Procter and Gamble Fellowship

Income from this fund will support master's, doctoral and post-doctoral students who are committed to advancing the health and well-being of women and children through clean water and improved nutrition. Scholars in 2003-2004 are:

Recipients: Dave Goodman
Lora Iannotti
Rakesh Sarwal

The Harry J. Prebluda Fellowship in Nutritional Biochemistry

This fellowship was established in 1990 by Mrs. Harry J. Prebluda and her children in memory of her late husband. Harry Prebluda earned his doctorate in Biochemistry at the School in 1937 and worked closely with E.V. McCollum. The fellowship fosters the careers of outstanding young scientists focusing on nutritional biochemistry and metabolism.

Recipient: Xiaoping Weng

The Refugee Health Training Fund

The School has taken the lead in training professionals to meet the growing crisis in refugee health care. This fund provides scholarship support for students on leave from relief organizations who wish to strengthen their expertise in providing health care to refugees and other displaced persons.

Recipient: Oliver Mohr
Mari Nagai

John Snow, Inc. Award in International Health

John Snow, Inc.'s mission is to provide an extensive range of research and consulting services in the health care and service sectors. The International Division provides technical assistance designed to enhance the effectiveness and quality of public health programs. The John Snow, Inc. Award is an annual award that was created in 2001. It provides financial assistance to outstanding, second-year MHS students in the Department of International Health who are engaged in an international health internship.

Recipients: Jessica Fehringer

Mental Health

The Harold and Sylvia Halpert Endowment Fund

Harold Halpert, MPH '64, DrPH '66, and his wife Sylvia established this fund in 1996 to support Department of Mental Health students who are committed to improving mental health services. Awardees are chosen for their achievements and for their potential to contribute to the field of mental health.

Recipient: Catherine Dormitzer

The Morton Kramer Fund for the Application of Biostatistics and Epidemiology in Research on the Prevention and Control of Mental Disorders

This fund was established by the late Morton Kramer, ScD '39, an internationally renowned research scientist in the Department of Mental Health. The income from this fund provides an annual award to an outstanding doctoral student in the department who has demonstrated excellence in the application of biostatistical and epidemiological methods to the solution of problems in research dedicated to advancing our knowledge of the epidemiology and prevention of mental disorders.

Recipient: Ya-Fen Chan

The Paul V. Lemkau Award

As the first chair of the Department of Mental Health (1962-1975), Paul Lemkau, MD, instituted the study of mental health within a public health framework. This fund, established by friends, colleagues, and family members, is given to a Department of Mental Health student or fellow who has made a significant difference in the community life of the department.

Recipient: Judith K. Bass

W. Harry Feinstone Department of Molecular Microbiology and Immunology

The A. Ralph and Sylvia E. Barr Fellowship

During his extensive career in public health, Dr. Ralph Barr, with his wife Sylvia at his side, made many significant, original contributions to the field of medical entomology and tropical medicine. Mrs. Barr established this fund in memory of her late husband to support a doctoral or postdoctoral student working in the W. Harry Feinstone Department of Molecular Microbiology and Immunology with vectors of infectious diseases in their natural habitats.

Recipient: Meera Venkatesan

The Eleanor Bliss Honorary Fellowship

The Eleanor Bliss Honorary Fellowship, established in 1989 by Eleanor Bliss, ScD '25, is awarded each year to a deserving doctoral student in the W. Harry Feinstone Department of Molecular Microbiology and Immunology. Dr. Bliss, a 1925 bacteriology graduate, taught at the Schools of Arts and Sciences and Medicine, in addition to the School of Public Health. The award symbolizes the spirit of Dr. Bliss's work in what was then the Department of Medical Zoology.

Recipient: Autumn S. Girouard

The Otis and Calista Causey Fellowship for Immunology

This fellowship was established in 1988 by alumna Calista Causey, ScD '25. Dr. Causey, who served on the Department of Biochemistry faculty in the 1920s and 1930s, created the award to recognize outstanding doctoral students in the W. Harry Feinstone Department of Molecular Microbiology and Immunology.

Recipient: Michael G. Overstreet

Frances A. Coventry Fund

This fund was created in 1995 by the estate of Frances Coventry, who received her doctorate from the Department of Immunology and Infectious Diseases (now the W. Harry Feinstone Department of Molecular Microbiology and Immunology) in 1924. Income from this fund provides support for outstanding Bloomberg School of Public Health students.

Recipient: Bjorn Kafsack

Martin Frobisher Fellowship Fund

The Martin Frobisher Fellowship Fund was established in 1990 by friends and colleagues in memory of Dr. Frobisher, ScD '25, who taught pathology and microbiology at the School until the late 1930s. Dr. Frobisher was an exceptional teacher and mentor and was recognized for his strong commitment to young people and to new approaches for educating future microbiologists. The award supports outstanding doctoral candidates in the W. Harry Feinstone Department of Molecular Microbiology and Immunology.

Recipient: Judith Easterbrook

The Bettylee Hampil Fellowship

The Bettylee Hampil Fellowship was established in 1985 by Dr. Bettylee Hampil, a 1927 graduate of the Department of Immunology and Infectious Diseases (now the W. Harry Feinstone Department of Molecular Microbiology and Immunology) and a pioneer researcher in virology. The award provides support to an outstanding doctoral candidate in the department.

Recipient: Amy E. Baker

The Hegner, Cort, Root Honorary Fellowship

The Hegner, Cort, Root Honorary Fellowship was established in 1989 by Drs. Gilbert Otto and Lloyd Rozeboom, ScD '34, to perpetuate the memory of Drs. Robert Hegner, William W. Cort, and Francis Root, three giants of the School's early years. This award supports a doctoral student in the W. Harry Feinstone Department of Molecular Microbiology and Immunology.

Recipient: Mark C. Siracusa

The Dr. Harry J. Lawler Award

This award was established in 1998 by Helen R. Lawler, widow of Harry J. Lawler, MD, ScD. Dr. Lawler enjoyed a long and distinguished career in pediatrics and psychiatry. The award recognizes the work of an outstanding student in molecular microbiology and immunology and provides support for further study.

Recipient:   Rebekah J. Kent

The Dr. Lloyd and Mae Rozeboom Scholarship

This award was created from the Lloyd E. Rozeboom Lectureship in Medical Entomology, established in 1993 with contributions from Dr. and Mrs. Rozeboom and their friends. Dr. Rozeboom received his ScD in medical entomology in 1934 and served on the faculty for more than 35 years. He was an internationally recognized authority on the transmission of mosquito-borne diseases and a beloved teacher. Both Dr. and Mrs. Rozeboom were known for their devotion to students. The scholarship supports students who are studying medical entomology/vector biology in the W. Harry Feinstone Department of Molecular Microbiology and Immunology.

Recipient:   John R. Clayton

The Katharine E. Welsh Fellowship

The late Katharine Welsh, a protozoology student, established this fellowship in 1990. It provides support for an outstanding student in the W. Harry Feinstone Department of Molecular Microbiology and Immunology. When Ms. Welsh was studying immunology and zoology in the late 1920s, she was only one of four pioneering women to do so. She pursued a career with the Baltimore City Health Department Laboratories that spanned more than 35 years. Ms. Welsh began as a junior bacteriologist and was acting director when she retired.

Recipient:   Lindi Tan

The Ruth G. Wittler Scholarship

The scholarship was established in 2000 by the estate of Ruth G. Wittler, PhD, MPH '44, of Annapolis, Maryland, who received her doctorate in 1944, specializing in filterable viruses. Dr. Wittler was a retired microbiologist from Western Reserve University. She was interested in the Chesapeake Bay environment and active in the Bay Ridge organization and the Ginger Cove governance committee. This scholarship supports students working in the laboratory sciences in the W. Harry Feinstone Department of Molecular Microbiology and Immunology.

Population and Family Health Sciences

The John and Alice Chenoweth-Pate Fellowship Award

The John and Alice Chenoweth-Pate Fellowship in the Department of Maternal and Child Health (now the Department of Population and Family Health Sciences) was created by the late Dr. Alice Chenoweth Pate to honor her late husband, Dr. John Pate MPH '48. Dr. Alice Chenoweth Pate worked with Dr. Paul Harper in the early 1950s to organize the School's program in maternal and child health. She was an integral part of the Children's Bureau, now known as the Maternal and Child Bureau, working closely with Dr. Martha May Eliot. As both a practitioner and administrator, Dr. Chenoweth Pate made significant contributions to the health and well-being of mothers and children in the United States. The fund supports a woman in the Department of Population and Family Health Sciences with a doctoral degree.

Recipients:    Adaline Muyeed
                          Ashley Schempf

The Donald Cornely Scholarship Fund

This scholarship was created by family and friends of Donald Cornely, MD, MPH '58, as well as alumni of the former Department of Maternal and Child Health. It honors Dr. Cornely's many contributions to the department during his tenure as chair from 1970 to 1990, and supports doctoral students in the department whose research has application in the field of maternal and child health.

Recipient:     Britta Beenhakker

The Edward J. Dehne Award in Population Dynamics

The late Edward Dehne, MD, MPH '41, DrPH '55, had a distinguished career in medicine and public health, with a concentration in occupational health. He served in the U.S. Army from 1941 through 1966, when he retired with the rank of colonel. Among his many assignments, he was commander of the Army Hygiene Agency and consultant to the Surgeon General in preventive and occupational medicine. Dr. Dehne created this award to encourage and support doctoral students in the area of reproductive health and family planning.

The Endowed Fellowship in Family Planning and Reproductive Health

Income from this fund will support graduate students or post-doctoral fellows in the Department of Population and Family Health Sciences working in the area of family planning and reproductive health.

Recipients:    Jessica Gipson
                          Ushma Upadhyay

The Paul A. and C. Esther Harper Award in Population and Family Health Sciences

Students, colleagues, and friends of Dr. Paul A. Harper, MD, MPH '47, the first chair of the former Department of Population Dynamics, established this award at the time of Dr. Harper's retirement. The fund supports both students whose research focuses on population issues and students studying maternal and child health whose academic performance has been judged outstanding.

Recipients: Unni Karunakara
W. Courtland Robinson
Michael Yonas

The Carl S. Shultz Fellowship

The Carl S. Shultz Fellowship, created by Mrs. Carl Shultz to honor her late husband's work in population research, provides support for meritorious doctoral students in reproductive health, family planning, demography, or reproductive biology. Dr. Shultz was a former U.S. assistant surgeon general and director of the Office of Population Affairs in the Department of Health, Education, and Welfare. He played a major role in developing federal policy on family planning.

Recipient: Jaya

The Kann Trowbridge Fund

The Kann Trowbridge Fund was established in 1995 by Mr. and Mrs. Alexander B. Trowbridge and the S. Kann Sons Company Foundation. Income from this fund provides a fellowship to a U.S. student studying population issues. The fund may also be used to support important faculty research and education projects in family planning and reproductive health.

Income from this fund supports U.S. doctoral students working in maternal and child health in the Department of Population and Family Health Sciences or in the Department of Health Policy and Management whose work focuses on issues of health policy and management for women and children. The fund was established by alumna Mary Kaye Willian, DrPH '82, MPH '79, and friends in honor of Dr. Willians parents, Irene V. and Raymond V. Willian.

INTERACTION COMMUNITY OUTREACH AWARD

This award recognizes a student who has made an outstanding contribution to a community-based organization during the past academic school year.

Recipients: Sufia Dadabhai, Epidemiology
