

LATINO PUBLIC HEALTH NETWORK & STUDENT ASSEMBLY PRESENT:

Public Health Initiatives Serving Latinos in the USA and Abroad & Potential Capstones: a faculty panel

Friday, November 18, 2011, 12:15 – 1:15, Room W3008,
Lunch will be provided!

“Exploring the the intersectionality of immigrant status, ethnicity/race, and sexuality in relation to HIV prevention.”

Dr. Kathleen Page, Assistant Professor of Medicine, Johns Hopkins Hospital

“Effective HIV prevention interventions in Latin America.”

Deanna Kerrigan, PhD, MPH, Associate Professor, Health Behavior and Society

“Mental health needs in Latino children & families.”

Dr. Marco Grados, Associate Professor, School of Medicine

“The changing Latino population at JHH and Bayview, 2000-2010 and overcoming language barriers.” Cheri Wilson, MA, MHS, CPHQ, Faculty Research Associate and Program Director

“Bugs, chicks, and pigs: how to improve a precarious household ecology in underserved settings in Latin America.” Dr. Elli Leontsini, Associate, Department of International Health