

Ann-Michele Gundlach, EdD is senior associate faculty in the Department of Health Policy and Management at the Johns Hopkins Bloomberg School of Public Health, where she teaches courses in organizational studies and leadership. Dr. Gundlach is also the president of AMG Consulting, an organizational management consulting firm that specializes in helping public and private health services organizations and leaders thrive in rapidly changing environments. Prior to founding her own company in 1992, she was president and CEO of Dome Learning Systems Inc., a subsidiary of the Johns Hopkins Institutions, which provided consulting services and educational seminars to health care organizations, Fortune 500 companies, and government agencies throughout the country. Her research has concentrated on how organizations assign meaning to change and how that influences their ability to adapt and change.