

Rebuilding Health Services After War: Why Invest in Health Service in the Wake of War?

*Tuesday, Nov. 10, 2009
8:30-10 am
Rayburn House Office Building, Room B339
Capitol Hill
Washington, D.C.*

Continental breakfast will be served

Please join the Global Health Council's Humanitarian Health Caucus, the International Rescue Committee, International Medical Corps and the US Institute for Peace for a panel discussion. Presenters will address topics including U.S. policy on post-conflict reconstruction, the intersection of post-conflict health and foreign assistance reform, and challenges of post-conflict health system functioning and funding, as discussed by an expert from the field.

Speakers:

- Leonard Rubenstein, Visiting Scholar, Center for Public Health and Human Rights, Johns Hopkins School of Public Health
- Stephen Commins, Strategy Manager, Fragile States, International Medical Corps
- George Kijana, Health Coordinator in Southern Sudan, International Rescue Committee

Moderator:

Smita Baruah, Director, Government Relations, Global Health Council

If you plan to attend, please fill out our online form.

