

Center for Teaching and Learning with Technology

Johns Hopkins Bloomberg School of Public Health

The Center for Teaching and Learning with Technology (CTLT) is dedicated to the education of research scientists and public health professionals around the world. We combine technology and instructional design principles to help faculty teach and students learn in both online communities and classroom settings.

The Center's services and offerings are instrumental to the Bloomberg School of Public Health's commitment to faculty development and excellence in educational materials. CTLT is comprised of instructional designers, Web application developers, technical editors, medical illustrators, multimedia specialists, audio producers, and quality-control staff.

The instructional design team is poised to assist JHSPH departments in multiple capacities.
