

Health and Public Policy

Selected Titles of Dissertations from Graduates of this program.

Who Speaks for the Uninsured? The Nascent Movement for Universal Health Care Coverage

The Development and Implementation of the Health Disparities Collaborative

Influence of Partisan Politics on National Health Care Expenditures from Public and Private Sources of Finance in OEDC Countries

Incremental Health System Reform Policy in Ecuador: Assessing the Impact Ecuador's Law for Provision of Free Maternity and Child Health Care (LMGAI) Has on Health Services Utilization, Infant Health Outcomes and Expenditures

The Physical Health Impacts of Post-disaster Displacement: A Study of the Older Adult Victims of Hurricane Katrina

Framing Tobacco Taxes: Exploring the Construction of Print Media Coverage of Tobacco Excise Tax initiatives in Six States and the Implications of Coverage for Media Advocacy

Effects of Public Policies on Intimate Partner Homicide.

Health Services Research in the Era of New Welfare State Theories - Political, Welfare State, and Health Care Determinants of Population Health in Wealthy Countries

In the Wrong Place? Geographic Variation in US Occupational Injury/Illness Rates