SOCIAL AND BEHAVIORAL ASPECTS OF PUBLIC HEALTH

June 3-14, 2019

Explore the impact of social and behavioral factors on health—and what can be done to influence them—through lectures, readings and small group discussions. The first half of the course covers major social factors influencing health and behavior; the second outlines modes of intervention used in the prevention of disease and injury at a variety of levels.

Instructor: Michelle Kaufman
Class times: 1:30 - 4:50pm

To register, visit:
https://tinyurl.com/summerinstitutes

The Health, Behavior and Society Summer Institute offers courses on a range of public health topics in an intensive, condensed format.

Hopkins employees may be eligible for tuition remission.

Department of Health, Behavior and Society
Contact: Shenay Johnson · shejohns@jhu.edu · 410.502.4415
For more info: https://tinyurl.com/hbs2019summerinstitute