Notice: In response to a number of requests, the MPH Practicum Awards have been expanded to include a group project category. Award application deadline (for group and individual awards) has been extended to March 11, 2015.

Practicum Awards for MPH Students

The Office of Public Health Practice and Training, in partnership with the MPH Program Office, recognizes MPH students for public health practice contributions made through their practicum experiences. Up to 10 individual projects and one group project will be awarded.

MPH Practicum Awards are self-nominated, but require a letter of support from the preceptor/supervisor. To be considered, you should submit the following information to practice@jhu.edu:

1. Statement (up to one page single-spaced, 1-inch margins, 12-point font) that describes the following:
   - Title of Practicum Project
   - Practicum experience activities completed
   - Project impact assessment (e.g., implications for policy, practice, future programming, etc.)
   - Self-reflection (for group submissions, please share how the project enriched the group's MPH experience):
     - How the project enriched your MPH experience
     - How the project impacted your future career goals and objectives

2. Resume/CV (for group submissions, please provide a resume/CV for each student in the group)

Note: The above documents should all be submitted as attachments to a single email.

3. In addition, please ask for a letter of support from your preceptor/supervisor which should be emailed separately to practice@jhu.edu with the subject heading “Student(s) Last Name(s) – Practicum Awards Support Letter”. One additional optional letter of support from an individual impacted by the project (e.g., stakeholder, community member, etc.) could also be requested.

Deadline for nominations is Wednesday, March 11, 2015 at 11:59 p.m.

Please address questions to: practice@jhu.edu.

Note: Both full-time and part-time MPH students are eligible. Practicum projects finishing up shortly after the submission deadline are still eligible for the award.

Disclaimer: Any materials you submit may be used on the Johns Hopkins Bloomberg School of Public Health website to announce and promote the practicum.
