Applied Public Health Ethics
Participants will learn what Public Health Ethics is and how to think about public health challenges through a public health ethics lens. The session will be interactive, as participants work through practical examples and engage in case discussions to apply this new lens to public health issues.

Presenters:
Nancy E. Kass, ScD - Professor, Phoebe R. Berman Professor of Bioethics and Public Health, Johns Hopkins Bloomberg School of Public Health, and Berman Institute of Bioethics. She is an expert in bioethics and health policy with a focus on public health ethics, HIV/AIDS policy, genetics policy, and international research ethics. Dr. Kass regularly addresses ethical issues which arise in public health practice.

Holly A. Taylor, PhD, MPH – Associate Professor, Johns Hopkins Bloomberg School of Public Health, and Core faculty, Berman Institute of Bioethics. She has expertise in health policy, HIV/AIDS policy, civilian biodefense, and informed consent.

*This covers the cost of lunch which is provided.
